FAILURE NOT

A DISGRACE

"What an unfortunate thing that the idea should be dinned into the ear of the youth everywhere that it is a disgrace to fail to make money, to accumulate property," says the Miami News-Record.

"It is not a disgrace to fail; but it is a disgrace not to do one's level best to succeed. Not failure but low aim is crime.

"Multitudes of poor people today who are not known outside of their own little communities are really great successes when measured by all that make true greatness—their heroic endeavors, their brave battle for years with obstacles, playing a losing game with heroism. Their great patience and wonderful self-control under the criticism of those who do not understand them are evidences that they have succeeded. The possession of a noble character is the greatest evidence in the world that they have succeeded.

"On the other hand, if a man has gotten a fortune, but has left his manhood on the way to it; if he has bartered his good name in the process of getting it, he is still a failure, no matter how much money he may have accumulated.

"A clean record is the greatest kind of a success. And how few men who make big fortunes manage to save their good name, to keep their record clean!

"The mere possession of money may be no evidence whatever that a man has succeeded. If he cannot control himself; if his aims are low and vulgar; if he is greedy and grasping and selfish; if he takes advantage of others; if he robs others of opportunity; if he has used them as stepping-stones with which to climb to his fortune, he is a failure measured by all that constitutes a real man—real values that are worth while.

WHAT LEGISLATURE

DID ACCOMPLISH

He introduced a franchise tax. The corporation forces classed it as most drastic. Light said it wasn't. But it never saw the light of day. The skillful filibuster which was handled on the floor of the house in order to prevent the reaching of just such bills succeeded. It could never be brought up for a vote.

That filibuster is worthy of note. The new members didn't know it was on. Early in the session the calendar began to fill with bills, good bad and indifferent. Day after day was taken up with the most trivial discussions. But as the session drew near to its close the authors of measures which the others did not want passed began to see what had happened. They couldn't get their bills up for a vote. A minority was able to prevent securing the requisite two-thirds to waive the rules and take up measures from a crowded calendar out of their regular order.

Representative "Jeems" Alexander had in a franchise tax bill also and so did Senator West in the senate. But they never saw the light of day either.

APPROPRIATIONS FEW

Few appropriations were made by the legislature. One of the very few made was that of $10,000 for improvements of the state rifle range at Black Point near Jacksonville. Practically all other appropriations made were the regular ones for the maintenance of the state government and for the state educational institutions. The 1927 session went down as the most extravagant in the history of the state. The reaction was felt and the session of 1929 made very few appropriations.

GUARANTEE OF BANK DEPOSITS.

State guarantee of bank deposits was a subject of general discussion through out the state before the legislature convened. Senator McMullen fathered the proposition and he introduced a bill at the first of the session. The bankers of the state protested, however, and it was decided to lay the matter over for two years just to see how the proposition would pan out in Oklahoma in that time as that state is trying it. Representative Taylor of Hillsboro looked after the proposition in the house and that body passed the bill. It never came to a vote in the senate. Representative Kelly of Baker, practically secured its passage through the house. He made a brilliant fight for it. He's a new member, too, incidentally, and one that made a big impression.

NO IMMIGRATION LEGISLATION.

The spirit of retrenchment prevented the Legislature taking any action to encourage immigration, although there was a general demand all over the State for such legislation. Representative DuPont, of St. Johns, introduced a bill which made provision for a general agent to advertise the State and look after the interests of immigration but this failed. Nothing with an appropriation had much chance of being passed by the legislature.

The fight over State and county uniformity of school text books came very near resulting in victory for the State uniformity plan championed by Senator Cone, of Lake City, and Representative Carn, of Marion county. Each house passed the respective bills but that fighting minority at the last kick prevented a waiver of the rules so that the bill of the other house could be taken up and passed.

PROTECTION OF GOPHERS.

There were bills less serious before the session. At the hour of 1:30 o'clock yesterday morning when the staid Senate was railroading through the most important bills to which there was little opposition the famous gopher bill came up. This is for the protection of the land tortoise of Florida which is known as the gopher. But the gopher, like the gator and the limpkin, is passing in Florida.

The bill prohibits their capture during the summer months. It only applies to West Florida. The gopher is still subject to capture and stew all the year round in the rest of Florida.

Another bill on the off order was that of Representative Bynum of Hamilton assessing a license tax of one dollar per year upon all persons who take a drink of liquor. He estimated that this would make up the deficit threatening the treasury. Nobody questioned this, but the bill died an ignominious death upon the calendar.

Bills for the conservation of the oyster industry of the State, for the conservation of its forest resources and for the protection of its fish and game were introduced in both houses and some passed one but none went through the two and became laws. A sentiment has been aroused by the fights, however, that were made over these measures and the way has been laid for the passage of such measures by a future legislature.

FLOURNOY A FIGURE

Senator Flournoy, of DeFuniak, is one of the youngest of the new members of the Senate and though he was absent much of the time through necessity, he made a place for himself by his ability. He is not a radical nor is he an extremist in the other direction. He displayed great ability especially as chairman of the committee on finance and taxation.

He has given this matter great attention and by the time the next session arrives will be ready to introduce a most important measure relative to assessments throughout the State. He believes since giving the matter much study that the burden of taxes now rests upon the poorer classes and upon the railroads and corporations while there are some in the middle class whose property is not assessed on an equal basis compared to the others and which should be raised.

Senator Sloan, of Polk, introduced many measures and secured the passage of some good ones. He didn't try to make speeches much but he works. He secured the passage of the bill requiring the teaching of the elementary principles of agriculture and civics in the common schools of the State. Senator Cook, of Washington county, didn't talk much, nor did Senator Adkins, of Bradford. But they were not indifferent. They were only learning and preparing for the next session when they will be the senior members.

On the conservative side of the house Senators Hunt Harris, of Key West, and H. H. Buckman, of Jacksonville, won the admiration of their fellows. Though in the fighting minority they made a brilliant fight over measures to which they were opposed and their uniform courtesy as well as their ability won them power. Senator Dayton, and Senator Johnson, of Suwanee, were consistent members of this side also.

MacWilliams, of St. John, has proven himself a leader among parliamentarians and Calkins, of Nassau, runs him a close second.

"Jeems" Alexander, of Volusia, is of course, a prominent figure. Everybody says he gets off grand stand stunts but when it comes to the show-down, it seems like he is usually successful about getting what he wants.

The House was indeed a mixture. At times it was really disorderly. There were many good men in it and some that were not so much. —Fred M. Allen, in Tampa Tribune.

AS SEEN BY THE TIMES-UNION

Hon. Frank W. Sams is among distinguished visitors to the State metropolis, being en route home from Tallahassee. Senator Sams has just completed his third term as a member of the upper house of the Legislature, which means that he has been a lawmaker the past twelve years. Individually speaking, Capt. Sams was possibly the strongest member of the 1929 legislature. Sound and conservative at all times, his power of influence has been felt in every quarter. He is honored and respected by all. Without Capt. Sams in the Legislature, Volusia stock would not bring such a handsome premium. He is one of the safest and soundest men in Florida, and being a staunch member of the good old school of Democracy, the people of Volusia should return him to the senate as often as he consents to accept the honor. —Times-Union, Sunday.

A newspaper in a good-sized town recently published the following item: "The business man of this city who is in the habit of hugging his typewriter had better quit, or we will have to publish his name." The next day thirty-seven business men called at the office and paid up their subscriptions and left behind thirty-seven columns of advertising, and told the editor of the paper not to pay any attention to foolish stories. —Ex.

My kidneys were weak and gave me great annoyance by too frequent passages of the secretions. I also suffered severely from backache and had a constant, dull pain through my loins. Some time ago I read about Doan's Kidney Pills and procured them. They relieved the backache, regulated the passages of the kidney secretions and made me feel a great deal better."

Not Tactful.

Some one asked Archbishop Langley of England once what tact was. "Well," replied the archbishop, "it is difficult to say what it is. Here, however, is an instance of what it is not: Only this morning a clergyman in my diocese wrote to me, 'In consideration of your grace's many infirmities and failing powers.' That was not tactful!"
